Our Philosophy

The agency's goals and services are based on two fundamental philosophical principles: the belief in the innate worth of the aged and disabled individual and the belief that each individual, regardless of age, race, color, creed, sex, national origin or handicap(s) is entitled to maximize their potential as a human being and as a member of society.

It is the contention of the agency that the aging process is a normal state in the development of any individual and that chronic disease and disability are, to some degree, a part of that process. This agency is dedicated to rehabilitating aged and disabled individuals within the confines of their residence, in order that they may maximize their contributions and fulfill their goals as a family member and member of society with a minimum of conflict. In accomplishing this end, it is felt that the self-respect of the individual can and will be enhanced.

The agency is also a vital member of its community. As an employer, the agency practices non-discrimination and strives to provide opportunities for personal and professional growth. As an integral part of the business community, the agency makes every effort to serve the people with attention to current area practices and specific needs.
